

Where Pigs Fly Farm

America's only Pig Museum to include Agricultural Museum

Project Staff

The AMT will work together in the planning of the addition of the Agricultural Museum. Including, identifying community partners, experts and institutions which can provide insights into creating an exceptional educational facility. The AMT will engage in content development, planning and executing the project.

Current team members include:

Cindy Brenneke, Executive Director

Responsible for overall management of the facility, remodeling projects, main public relations and media contact, fundraising, grant writing, community and board relations, accounts receivable and payable.

Leads the planning and implementation for all exhibits. Responsible for each exhibit from design to completion. Must provide a three-dimensional design for the project, which includes drawings and documents allowing the exhibit elements to be built and installed, materials list, budget, completion schedule and execution process. Will ensure that all exhibits created meet the criteria outlined in the project work plan in the Narrative.

Judy Noah, Executive Assistant

Responsible for running the office, assisting Executive Director and Program Director, assist with grants, answer phones, mailings, clerical work, accounts receivable and gift shop management.

Pam Swanson, Program Director

Responsible for youth programs, special events, volunteer management, sponsorship and membership development. Also, responsible for gathering and verifying information to be used for exhibits. Will lead the focus groups and interviews of community partners, compile data from these interviews and track project results as defined in the narrative. Will gather books, pamphlets, handouts and other information to be shared in the library.

Ken Rahmoeller, Financial officer/Budget Director

Responsible for overseeing all expenditures and income for the museum expansion. Will keep core team updated on a regular basis of the budget as the project progresses.

Branden Coker, Computer Programmer Specialist

Will architect and develop the software used for the interactive Kiosks.

Doris Kempker, Marketing and Communication Director

Creates marketing and promotional materials, including a monthly electronic newsletter with updates. Contacts media about progress, post updates with photos on website and social media. Keeps community partners and experts up-to-date on the progress.